Teaching Philosophy:

I was fortunate enough to start golf at a young age under my father who is a golf professional. My style of teaching reflects the way I was taught which is through simplicity. Combined with hard work and a game plan, students will learn a method that suits them best in a fun and relaxed atmosphere. I view the driver, wedge, and putter as the three most important clubs in the bag and if students can perfect those, their scores will lower. Establishing rapport and trust with my students will assist in achieving their goals.
